

FIG. 1

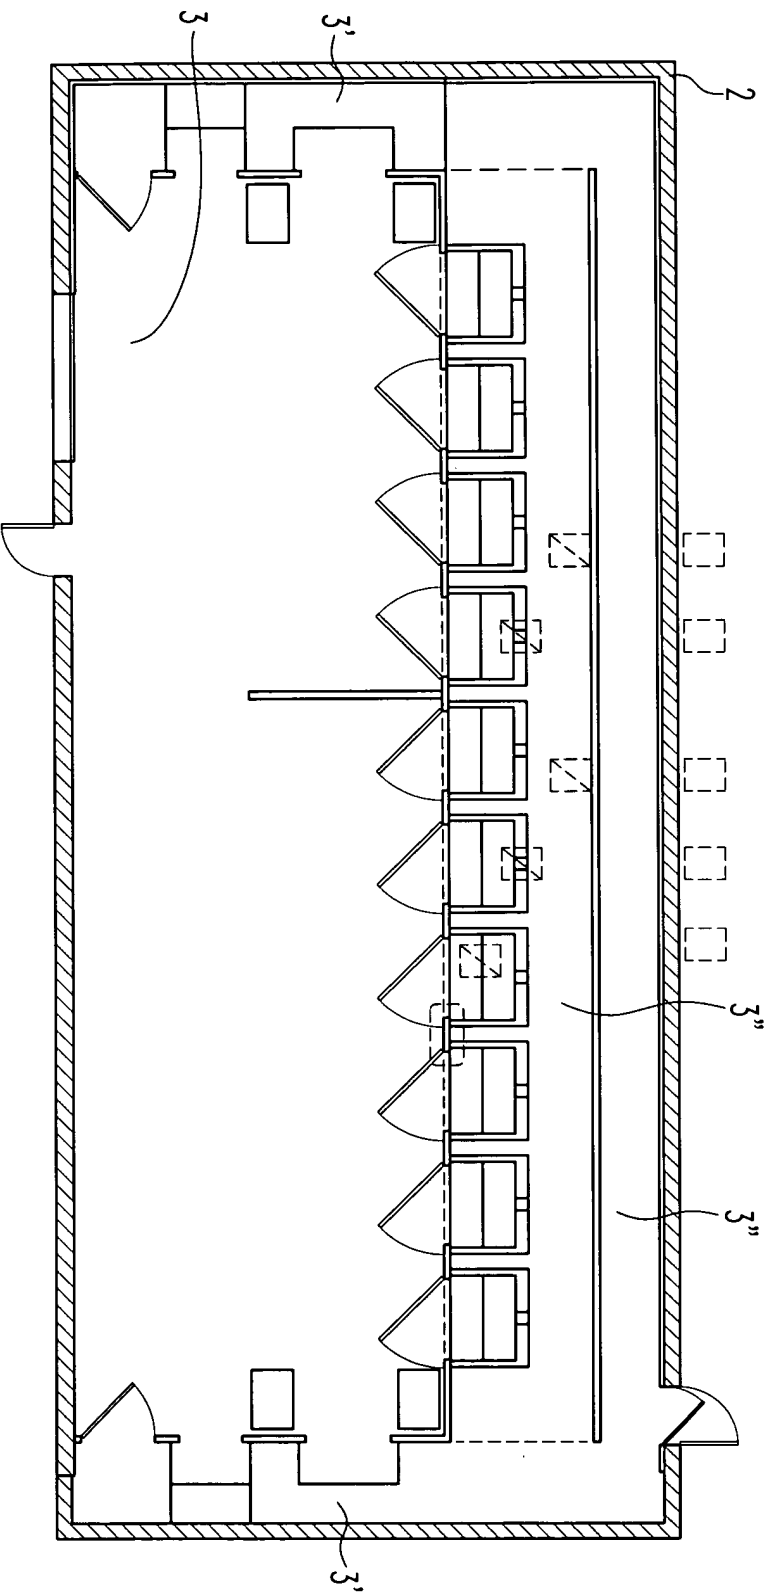

FIG. 2

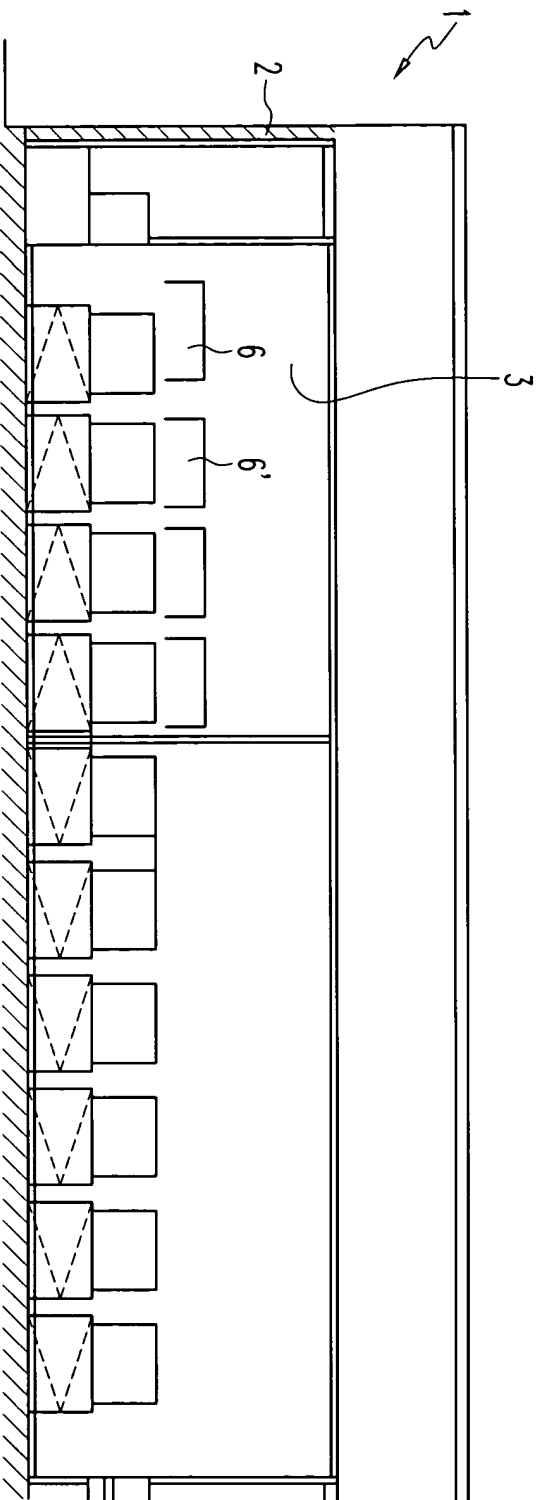

FIG. 3

FIG. 4 is a cross-sectional view of the building structure 100, showing the interior space 101, the roof 102, the floor 103, and the walls 104. The interior space 101 is divided into a main living area 105 and a kitchen area 106. The roof 102 is shown in cross-section, revealing the structural members 107 and the insulation 108. The floor 103 is shown in cross-section, revealing the structural members 109 and the insulation 110. The walls 104 are shown in cross-section, revealing the structural members 111 and the insulation 112. The kitchen area 106 includes a sink 113, a stove 114, and a refrigerator 115. The living area 105 includes a sofa 116 and a coffee table 117. The roof 102 is shown with a gabled structure, and the floor 103 is shown with a flat structure. The walls 104 are shown with a vertical structure. The interior space 101 is shown with a large opening for a doorway 118. The roof 102 is shown with a small opening for a vent 119. The floor 103 is shown with a small opening for a drain 120. The walls 104 are shown with a small opening for a window 121. The kitchen area 106 is shown with a small opening for a door 122. The living area 105 is shown with a small opening for a door 123. The roof 102 is shown with a small opening for a door 124. The floor 103 is shown with a small opening for a door 125. The walls 104 are shown with a small opening for a door 126. The interior space 101 is shown with a small opening for a door 127. The roof 102 is shown with a small opening for a door 128. The floor 103 is shown with a small opening for a door 129. The walls 104 are shown with a small opening for a door 130.

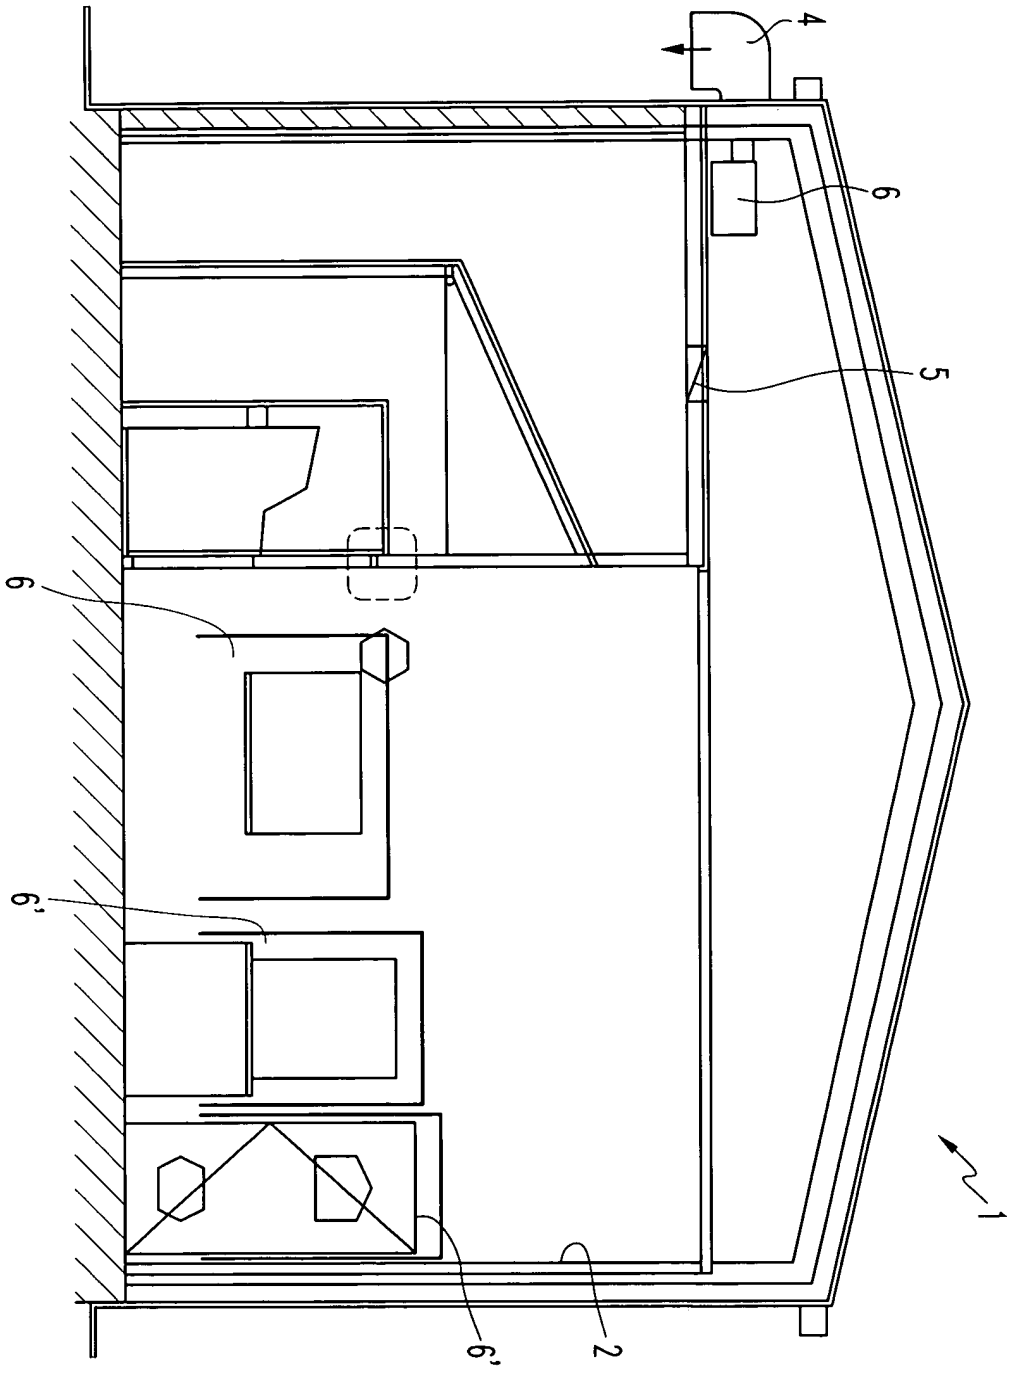

FIG. 4